EXPLORE

A walk around San Francisco can feel like traveling the world without leaving city limits. That’s because of our city’s incredible diversity and unique neighborhoods, each with its own distinct character and charm. Some of the most visited ones include:

Chinatown
San Francisco’s Chinatown is North America’s first and largest. Full of historic sites, legacy businesses, and incredible dining, Chinatown is a must for all visitors.

Union Square
In a city full of great shopping, Union Square is the neighborhood with the most abundant retail therapy, not to mention fine hotels, great meals, and green spaces to sit outside and enjoy San Francisco’s temperate climate.

The Castro
Regardless of your sexual orientation, no trip to San Francisco is complete without a visit to the world-famous Castro District, one of the country’s first gay neighborhoods, where modern activism for LGBTQ rights began—and continues.

Haight-Ashbury
On the corner of Haight and Ashbury streets sits a beacon that calls to all who visit San Francisco: a street sign marking the heart of the neighborhood where 1960s flower power blossomed. These days, colorful Victorian houses brighten the hillsides, and the streets are filled with restaurants and boutiques.

The Mission
The Mission District is one of San Francisco’s most-of-the-moment neighborhoods, packed with trend-setting boutiques, restaurants, and more. It’s also the heart of the city’s large and diverse Latino community.
THE MOSCONET CENTER

The Moscone Center is San Francisco’s premier convention venue and a world-class hub for innovation. The facility has hosted some of the most important conventions and product announcements in recent memory, providing the space for businesses and organizations from the U.S. and beyond to celebrate their achievements.

The Moscone Center is in the heart of the SoMa/Yerba Buena neighborhood, within walking distance of more than 19,000 of San Francisco’s 35,000+ hotel rooms, world-class dining, shopping, and cultural venues. It features more than 502,000 square feet of contiguous exhibition and meeting space; three floors of column-free meeting space, including a 56,000-square-foot ballroom; and more than 25,000 square feet of secure outdoor terraces. It has also been accredited by the Global Biorisk Advisory Council’s STAR program; ASM’s Global VenueShield Environmental Hygiene program; and the U.S. Green Building Council’s LEED program, achieving platinum certification, which is the highest possible level.

The San Francisco Travel Association serves as the booking agent for The Moscone Center and is tasked with bringing meetings and events to the space all year long.

Economic Impact

In 2022, the Moscone Center, San Francisco’s largest and most in-demand convention venue, hosted 33 events, including the full-scale return of Dreamforce. Restoring our meetings and events business was a key priority for us. In the end, 2022’s citywide and self-contained conventions contributed $341M in direct spending to the city’s economy.
